Building community. Feeding and nourishing those in the greatest need.

2019 IMPACT REPORT
The Mission
A World Without Hunger

Envisioning a world in which physical and spiritual hungers are met by God's grace and abundance through Jesus Christ.

Mission
The Society of St. Andrew brings people together to harvest and share healthy food, reduce food waste, and build caring communities by offering nourishment to hungry neighbors.

Core Values
» Faith We are called to love God and love our neighbors as ourselves. This is reflected in all that we do. We demonstrate the power and effectiveness of a true Christian community in addressing critical human problems, particularly hunger.

» Compassion We believe in living a just lifestyle and in sharing our resources and the world’s with those whose basic needs are not being met.

» Stewardship We seek to make the most and best use of all resources, in a way that demonstrates competence, justice, and sharing.

» Service We are called to love, not just in words, but in deeds and in truth. This serves as the foundation for all that we do. We provide opportunities for others to serve, fostering renewal in people’s lives, in congregations, and in the communities in which we serve.

(*)Board Member Term Ended at the End of 2019
I pray that our supporters and families are staying healthy. Even though “things have changed” during this COVID-19 pandemic, many things have not. People are still hungry, just more people. Produce is going to waste in fields, just more is going to waste now, our volunteers are still committed, just with new precautions in the fields. And our staff remains committed to our mission. Our ministry is as important today as it has ever been and I am thankful for all of our supporters and for our volunteers and of course for our wonderful and dedicated staff.

At the beginning of April 2020, I sent an email to the entire SoSA staff and I thought I would share that here with you now:

Dear SoSA Staff,

My thoughts and prayers are with you all during this extraordinary season. Thank you for your perseverance and commitment to our ministry. Lynette gave me a thorough briefing yesterday on how the staff is doing, how we are adapting to this situation, how it affects volunteers, and what the impact is on our overall gleaning efforts. We are all adapting not only how we live, but how we do our jobs and our ministry. Direct gleaning now has to account for social distancing, we need to be alert for new funding sources that we may not have tapped before, we are now beginning to focus on large loads moved relatively short distances, and we are looking for creative and meaningful ways to keep our volunteers involved and engaged.

Lynette and I also discussed likely and potential impacts on funding. Every organization must think about the what-ifs and have a set of plans to deal with what might happen. Lynette has always been strategic in her planning and now is no different. Unfortunately, we just don’t know the extent of the impact of this pandemic, but we do know that many of our faithful supporters may be out of work or are at least feeling the financial strain. It’s likely that contributions will decrease. However, we intend to take advantage of forgivable loans and grants that are available through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act as well as other programs that states may provide. Our best estimate is that if we are successful with our applications, a large portion of our expected shortfall will be mitigated with this assistance.

Please take care of your and your families’ health and strive to be creative in how we make the most of this situation both in our lives and in our ministry.

Randy Beardsworth
Thank you. You—and thousands of caring people like you, along with congregations, businesses, corporations, and foundations—set a miracle in motion every day through your gifts to the Society of St. Andrew. Millions of hungry people in this country enjoy fresh fruits and vegetables because your gifts connect farms, volunteers, and feeding agencies to share nourishing food with people in greatest need. Thank you for making this amazing ministry possible!

As I write this introduction, the COVID-19 pandemic has schools and businesses across the country shuttered. While these precautions are necessary to “flatten the curve” of a significant disease outbreak, they increase the financial hardships of the most vulnerable residents of our communities. We know that in the coming months food need will increase. The needs around us are great, and there is so much good, excess produce in fields across our country. With your help, the Society of St. Andrew will continue its grassroots work to glean and share healthy food with our neighbors in need.

Health and hope,
Lynette Johnson

Potato & Produce Project
Broadly-focused and national in scope, the Potato & Produce Project transports large loads (10,000 pounds or more) of fresh fruits and vegetables from farms and packing houses to food banks around the country, often working with congregations and civic organizations through “produce drops” to bag and distribute this good food.

Seed Potato Project
Regionally-focused, the Seed Potato Project works throughout the Appalachian states (from Ohio to Tennessee) to share seed potatoes each spring with low-income families who own their own land, but cannot afford to grow their own food. These seed potatoes provide an eight-fold yield at harvest, nourishing the family that planted them and their community.

Gleaning Network
Intensely-focused and hyper-local in operation, the Gleaning Network mobilizes tens of thousands of volunteers each year to glean food that remains after commercial harvest from fields or orchards within a few miles of their home. Most of this food rides in volunteers’ trunks, backseats, and pickup beds to nearby feeding agencies, where it is often served or shared with people in need the same day it was harvested!

Harvest of Hope
Promoting all of the Society of St. Andrew core values, Harvest of Hope—a mission trip program with emphasis on gleaning, hunger education, and advocacy—calls volunteers to deeper faith, greater stewardship, and a broader commitment to take action against hunger in their own communities.

In the pages ahead, you’ll see YOUR impact—the nourishing food you’ve shared through your gifts to the Society of St. Andrew, and the people who have received them. You’ll meet farmers, volunteers, and front-line agencies that SoSA is honored to work with every day. All of this work happens because you give. Thank you!
A Sustainable Funding Mix

Funding comes from three primary sources

» Faith Communities: Representing many denominations and faith communities from all 50 states. (30.7% of cash income in 2019)

» Individuals: From generous donors in all 50 states (25.2% of cash income in 2019)

» Foundations and Corporations: Grants and gifts from businesses, foundations, and other organizations across the U.S. (44.1% of cash income in 2019)

This diverse and strong funding mix is just part of the reason the Society of St. Andrew has been successful for 40 years, regardless of the general economic environment.

SoSA Promoting Good Stewardship

SoSA's overarching operating principle is one of good stewardship. Just as we believe in good stewardship of our nation's food resources, so also we believe in good stewardship of the financial contributions from generous donors that make this ministry possible. When you share over 58 million servings of highly nutritious food with people in need at a cost of less than 5¢ per serving, every penny counts!

You Built Caring Communities

There are many farms in the Mississippi Delta, yet a large number of people struggle with hunger. Nearly 2,000 people live in the town Itta Bena, MS, and about 32% (or 1 in 3) of them struggle with reliable access to daily food.

Henry saw the need in his community and along with his son, grandson, and a few friends from church, Henry joined the mission to end hunger. They started by giving of their talents and created a community garden. There they routinely plant and harvest a variety of crops to share with the community residents.

But that’s not all... In addition to their garden, Henry and his team glean food with SoSA to bring both a wider variety and larger quantity of fruits and vegetables to families in need.

As time passed, Henry's church began to host speaking events for their local SoSA staff to raise awareness about hunger and to promote the power of working together toward a common goal. They also invite guest speakers from other organizations to teach residents essential skills such as how to cook and store various fruits and vegetables to ensure there is no waste.

As their involvement with the mission grew, Henry's church began to collect a monthly offering to cover costs for sharing food with other small towns around Mississippi. They also began to use seasonal spiritual booklets from SoSA to feed spiritual hunger in addition to physical hunger in their community.

Henry and his church use what they have available, to give to those who might otherwise go without.

Ray's story shows there are many ways you can make a difference in your community and serving with the Society of St. Andrew is one of them.

Serving others is a priority in Ray's life. In addition to raising a family and working a full-time job, Ray spends his days helping others in almost any way imaginable.

summer; or a man needs a gate hinge welded back onto a trailer for work; or a hurricane makes landfall and hygiene products are impossible to find- Ray is ready and willing to drop everything to lend a hand. And when the Society of St. Andrew (SoSA) calls with an opportunity to glean fields and feed hungry people, Ray is there too!

While hunger relief is not only the mission near to Ray’s heart, it’s something he could not ignore once he discovered the extent of hunger in and around his county. It all started when a friend from Ray’s church invited him to join a field gleaning event with (SoSA). Ray began serving as a SoSA volunteer several years ago. Ray started by joining a larger group helping glean a good-sized field. Over time, his commitments to the ministry expanded. Ray would arrive early, gather as much food as he could to help others and to personally deliver food back to his community. He made it a priority to share food with senior citizens in need as well as families that he knew were struggling to make ends meet. He now routinely leads large groups of volunteers and coordinates SoSA’s gleaning network in one area of his state. ■

Emma’s story shows you can find joy not only in your service but in leading others into helping their neighbors in need.

Lead

Emma joined SoSA’s mission because she has a heart for community service. SoSA is one of several organizations that Emma serves within her community.

Initially, she volunteered to glean her local farmer’s market, one weekend, one summer. She found joy in her service and in seeing the impact of her efforts. Now she routinely serves and leads others into the mission as well. Emma recruits helpers by inviting her friends, family, and classmates to join her in service on a Saturday morning. They visit the farmers’ stands, gather up the unsold food, and sort it into smaller containers to share with local feeding agencies.

Gleaning for two hours a day, once a month, each summer makes a significant impact. Emma devotes her time, energy, and relationships to serve the people in her community simply because they need help.

Leading her friends and family into serving their community is what Emma values the most. She knows they will enjoy helping, and that together they can do more than apart! ■

Social of St. Andrew 2019 Impact Report
Christina’s story taught us that we should continue to learn, even during difficult circumstances, and that as we learn, we have a responsibility to share with others...

Learn

Christina and her family went through a difficult period due to the loss of a job. During that period, Christina tried everything to ensure her family had enough good food to eat every day, sometimes relying on support from food pantries and feeding programs.

Christina and her husband worked hard, and over time improved their circumstances, establishing themselves in a new community. Now, they regularly volunteer because they learned there is value in giving back to their community.

Christina is motivated to serve because she wants to teach her daughter the importance of giving back, as well as put fresh fruits and vegetables on the shelves of nearby food pantries. She also shares her time and talents with the Society of St. Andrew to teach people there is no shame in asking for help when you need it. She knows precisely how difficult it is to struggle financially and to be afraid to ask for help.

Christina willingly shares her story to inspire others. She wants people to understand that if you have time, money, or energy, then you have a responsibility to use those gifts to help your neighbors. And she wants to make sure that people struggling with hunger know it is okay to ask for help if it’s needed.

It's so important to share fresh, healthy produce with those who need it most. Sharing good food provides more than just nutrition. It gives hope and encouragement to people who need it most.

Whether you serve one time or once a year, what you do matters.

Whether your service is giving, serving, learning, or leading others, you are making a difference.

Thank you!

To those who connect and share through the Society of St. Andrew, to all of the farmers, volunteers, donors, agencies, and the people who love and support them, thank you! Your service makes countless stories like these possible, every year, across the country. Thank you for helping your neighbors!

These stories show the power of people coming together to harvest and share healthy food, reduce food waste, and build caring communities.

Legacy Partners

Twenty three individuals and couples have chosen to become Legacy Partners with Society of St. Andrew. Each has included SoSA in their will or trust so they can continue to feed hungry people even past their lifetimes. We are grateful for their commitment and support. Please contact us if you are interested in becoming a Legacy Partner.

Spiritual Life and Faith Development Resources

Society of St. Andrew publishes spiritual life and faith development resources as part of its commitment to feed spiritual hungers. In 2019, SoSA’s Advent devotions, Lenten devotions, Good Friday Fast booklets and Vacation Bible School materials were used in print form by more than 90,000 individuals in 47 states, Washington, DC and Canada. Thousands more utilized these resources through free downloads from the Society of St. Andrew website, Endhunger.org.
